

CONVINCED

That Great Coal Strike Will End by Agreement.

President Gompers Gives Out Statement Before Leaving Wilkesbarre Today--Mob Rule Was in Evidence in Pennsylvania Today.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 17.—President Gompers of the Federation of Labor, gave out the following statement this morning, previous to his departure for Washington:

"At this time it is impossible to say exactly when the strike will end but after a careful inquiry into the situation, I am convinced that the struggle will end by agreement. The wage earners and general public are contributing to the aid of the miners. It is essential that this aid be continued. If the manhood of the Union is to be maintained they must at least have bread for their wives and children if not for themselves. The declared attitude of the presidents of the anthracite carrying railroads has not apparently changed. Despite this fact I am fully convinced that the strike will end through agreement with improved conditions for the miners and the Union maintained."

MORE MOB RULE.

Mahoney City, Pa., Sept. 17.—Mob rule on the outskirts of the town threw this place into a ferment of excitement this morning. Strikers to the number of 300 attempted at 3 a. m. to hold up a supply train going in to the deputies at North Mahoney colliery. As the train reached Kaier's brewery the strikers clambered on board with designs of detaching the engine, but they were driven off by a force of coal and iron police with drawn revolvers.

FISH LURED INTO SALOON

Police Think Assault Was Carefully Planned--Three Arrests Made, But One Suspect is Missing--Further Details of the Tragedy.

New York, Sept. 17.—Today the police are still trying to solve the Nicholas Fish tragedy. In the party with Fish was a Mrs. Margaret Pickle, a very pretty woman, in whom he was interested. No statement of this fact was made yesterday by Sharkey or the two other women arrested. Mrs. Pickle has disappeared. Witnesses have been found who say Sharkey did strike the blow which caused Fish to fall to his death, despite Sharkey's denials.

New York, Sept. 17.—Yesterday's dispatches to the Advocate told of the death during the morning of Nicholas Fish, banker, millionaire clubman and member of one of New York's most historic families in a west side saloon. Further details of the tragedy are now disclosed.

A policeman found Mr. Fish lying unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the saloon and summoned an ambulance, in which he was taken to the Roosevelt Hospital, where his identity was revealed by papers found in his possession.

Two elements of mystery still remain—a mysterious third woman who was with Mr. Fish and a theory which Coroner Jackson and the police announced they were investigating, that Mr. Fish was decoyed to the place as a result of a conspiracy. This theory would account for Mr. Fish's presence for two hours in the saloon with companions of social standing far removed from his own.

Two women and a man have been arrested and the police are looking for the fifth member of the party—Mrs. Margaret Pickle, a handsomely groomed woman who sat at Mr. Fish's right in the cafe and to whom he devoted most of his attention.

The three who were arrested are Thomas J. Sharkey, a private detective; Mrs. Libbie J. Phillips, a handsome grass widow of whom Sharkey is madly jealous, and Mrs. Nellie Casey, wife of a theatrical musician who lives in the same house with Phillips. The other woman—Mrs. Pickle—has completely vanished and the police have been unable to locate her.

Mr. Fish paid little attention to Mrs. Phillips and addressed his conversation almost exclusively to Mrs. Pickle. Sharkey, who pushed his way into the party, did not see this, and he picked a quarrel with Mr. Fish. He ran after him to the door when he was trying to get away to avoid a fight in a saloon and, meeting him at the door, knocked him down with a terrific blow. The entire party then fled. It was not until morning that the police found out who Fish's assailant was and arrested Sharkey and the two women in Mrs. Phillips' flat in West Eighty-fourth street. Sharkey was held in $10,000 bail and the two women in $100 each as witnesses.

Sharkey admitted striking Fish, but it was only after Fish had insulted him and he had jabbed him in the side with his elbow.

Mrs. Fish is prostrated over the death of her husband. During the day many friends called to express their sympathy and many telegrams and letters of condolence were received. The casket containing the body was placed in the parlor. Stuyvesant Fish speaking for the widow said that she had arrived at the hospital before her husband's death, but that he was unconscious and did not know of her presence. The inquest will be held Friday.

The funeral was held today in St. Mark's church in Second avenue. The burial was in the family plot at Garrison, N. Y.

STANDARD OIL

JOINS HANDS WITH THE COAL TRUST

By Helping the Coal Combine to Keep Up the Price of Fuel at Columbus.

Columbus, Sept. 17.—The Standard Oil Company has joined with the coal trust in its fight with the Ohio State officials. Last week Adjutant General Gyger, because of the exorbitant prices asked by the local representatives of the trust for supplying coal to heat the Capitol building, experimented with crude oil, which would have been much less expensive. It was a complete success and Gyger definitely decided upon a change of fuel. The experiment of burning oil was conducted by Captain J. L. Styron of Newark, who is superintendent of the state house grounds.

Yesterday he applied to the Standard for prices upon crude oil, and was quoted $4.70 a barrel, in tank car lots, delivered. This is about the selling rate of refined oil and would cost the state about twice as much as coal. The Standard's agent gave the state officers no explanation, and seemed little disposed to sell them oil at any price. Unless the state can now get Texas oil the coal trust will win the fight.

LINE

Of Demarkation Between Cities and Villages is Fixed at 5000.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Both committees of the senate and the house today agreed to fix the line of demarkation between cities and villages at 5000 population.

A sensation occurred in the investigation today of Mayor Hinkle of alleged misconduct on the part of directors of the city workhouse. A witness named Thalsted testified to having seen improper conduct between Dr. C. S. Carr, one of the directors, and the wife of the superintendent of the work. The attorneys for the workhouse are now drawing up an affidavit.

TARIFF

Revision Not to Come This Winter.

Conference Was Held With The President.

WHO IS ABOUT TO START ON HIS WESTERN TRIP.

A DISCUSSION OF THE TRUSTS.

President Will Stick to the Protection Plank Opposing Iowa Platform. The Conference.

New York, Sept. 17.—On the eve of a three weeks' tour of the West, President Roosevelt conferred yesterday afternoon with five of the most influential United States Senators about the political situation at his summer home at Oyster Bay, L. I.

The Senators were William B. Allison of Iowa, Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, Mark A. Hanna of Ohio, Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, and John C. Spooner of Wisconsin. Postmaster-General H. C. Payne was also a participant.

The conference was the most important that has been held by the President since the adjournment of Congress.

One of the main objects of the conference was a discussion of the trust question. The President wanted to present his side of the case to the Senators and to ask them to aid him in carrying out his ideas. He felt that he could convince the Senators that it was better to go ahead and meet the question boldly than to shirk and "let well enough alone." He succeeded in this evidently.

Whatever may be said on the stump there is believed to be no likelihood of an early revision of the tariff by Republicans. On the other hand there may be early legislation on trusts. It is to the trust interests then to try to complicate the situation. Neither the President nor any of the Senators at the conference believe a reduction of the tariff would kill the trusts or mitigate any trust evils.

It can be stated positively that the President and the Republican Senators are opposed to the lowering of the tariff as a cure for trusts. In this respect they are opposed to the Iowa platform.

There was an elaborate interchange of views on the tariff, considered aside from the trusts, on the President's back porch. It developed that the president is not opposed to the lowering of tariff schedules.

Senator Spooner is in favor of a revision of some of the schedule. Senator Allison is inclined the same way. Senators Hanna, Lodge and Aldrich emphatically discourage the idea, but are not blind to the sentiment in the Middle West. The difficulties in the way are that each locality wants certain duties lowered, and others let alone.

The Senators and the President finally decided that the protection plank of 1900 would be a good chart to steer by, and the President will probably follow its lines in his Western speeches.

As to Cuban reciprocity, the President's attitude was incensed. There will be no extra session of the Senate to consider a treaty, but a treaty will be sent to the Senate early in December and passed.

The President will talk Cuba strong in the best states.

The subject of the coal strike was not mentioned at the conference. No attempt will be made at the forthcoming session of Congress to revise the tariff, but President Roosevelt will in his speech urge a revision of the tariff along conservative lines before the expiration of his term.

DEADLOCK

Advocates of Federal Plans Routed, But the House and Senate are at Variance.

Columbus, O., Sept. 17.—The House and Senate have locked horns over the board plan of administration for Ohio municipalities, embodied in Governor Nash's code. The Senate by a margin of one vote, sustained the board plan and the special code committee of the House rejected it by a strong majority. Neither seems disposed to give way, but it is probable that when the matter is referred to a conference committee, the Senate will give way and consent to the substitution of the single department head plan for the Governor's board system.

This will materially change the Governor's bill and necessitate a lot of amendments to make it conform to the new plan. The advocates of the federal system were completely routed in both branches, and none of their suggestions will be embodied in the code that is finally enacted.

BOY

Shot Top of His Sister's Head Off at Paterson, N. J., Today.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 17.—Willie Hubbs, a six year old boy, shot and killed his 15 year old sister, May, today with a shot gun belonging to an older brother. The boy was playing with the weapon and his mother who was busy with her household duties, took no notice of him. Suddenly he aimed the gun at his sister crying, "Look out, I am going to shoot." He did and the girl fell dead, the top of her head being blown off.

THREE TRAINS

IN COLLISION THREW PEOPLE IN PANIC.

Chicago Elevated Trains Running Close Together When the Accident Happened.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Five persons were seriously injured and three train loads of passengers were thrown into a panic in a collision between three south side elevated trains last night at Sixty-third street and Madison avenue. The injured are Robert Colbert, motorman, both legs fractured, H. C. Otter, legs crushed and body bruised, Isadore Phillips, severely cut about the head and body; Belden Briscoe, guard on train, hip dislocated and body bruised, Mrs. George Clarke, arms and face lacerated.

The trains were running close together. When the foremost train stopped at the Sixty-third street station a cylinder head blew out of a compressed air tank on the front coach, throwing the brakes out of gear and rendering the train unmanageable. At the point where the train was standing is a steep incline and the train started backward at high speed. The motorman on the second train saw the retrograde movement, but was unable to back his train out of danger and the first train crashed into the second one with a momentum that wrecked the two colliding cars and sent the second train bowling back to bump violently into a third. The second and third trains were crowded with passengers. Everyone rushed to get out of the cars and before could be restored several persons in addition to those seriously injured were cut and bruised.

HENDERSON

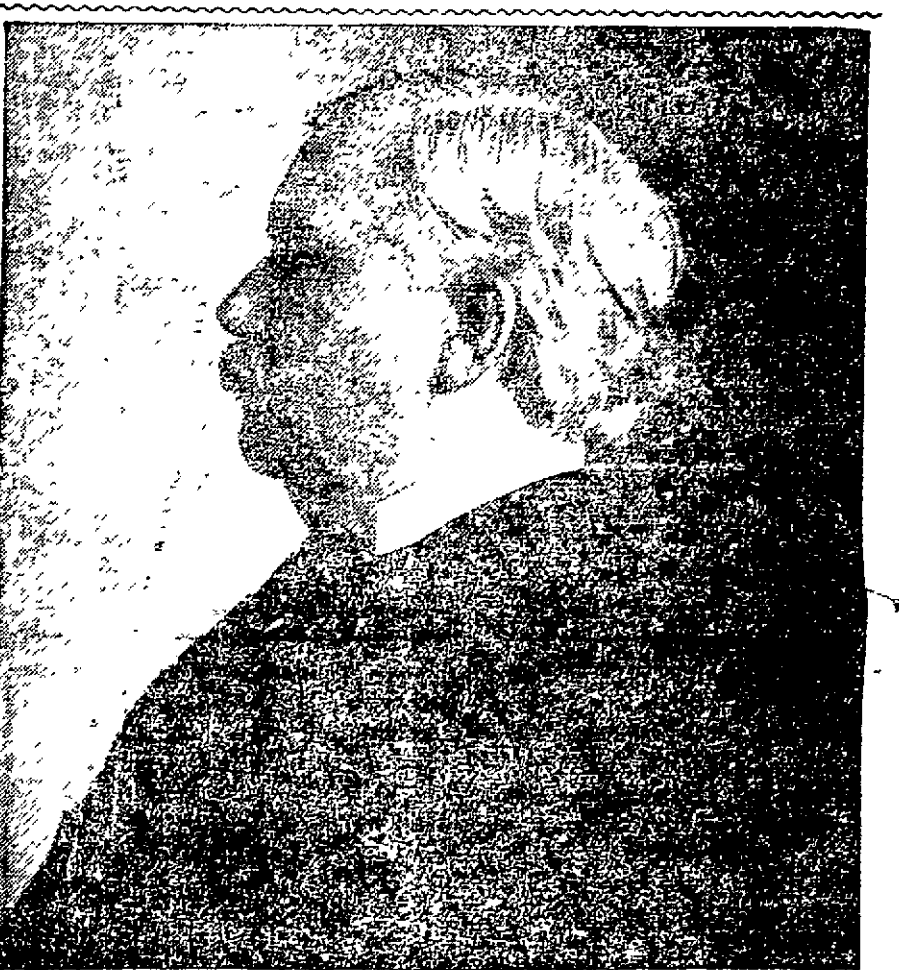

Speaker of the House Withdraws From the Race

Views on the Tariff at Variance With Principles of Party He Says--Reasons are Given in Note--News Astonishes Washington.

Dubuque, Iowa, Sept. 17.—Speaker Henderson, finding that his views in respect to the treatment of trusts by reducing the tariff in whole or in part are not in accord with the views of many of his party in Iowa, has declined to accept the nomination for congress and has withdrawn from the race.

THE HAWKEYE'S VIEW.

Burlington, Ia., Sept. 17.—The Hawkeye pronounces Colonel Henderson's declination: "A great and unpleasant surprise. There is apparent no cogent reason for this step. There was no question of his re-election by a large majority. His re-election to congress presumably meant his re-election to the Speakership, one of the

of my nomination for the 11th time by acclamation as the Republican candidate for congress from the third congressional district of Iowa. Reported conditions in the public mind in my district upon public policies induced me to make this delay. Since my return to the district I have made a careful study as to the sentiment in the district and state and I believe there is no little sentiment, and a growing sentiment among Republicans, that I do not truly represent their views on the tariff question. Believing this condition to exist and knowing that I do not agree with many of my people that trusts, to which I am and have been opposed, can be cured, or the people benefited by free trade, in whole or in part, I must decline to accept the nomination so generously and enthusiastically made. I have devoted twenty of the best years of my life to my people and my country, and I have fought for what I believe to be best for the farmer, the laborer, and the business interests of this district and state. I am grateful for the position that has ever been accorded me, and to the hour of my death I will hold in a grateful heart the memory of that devotion. I will give later on, my views and convictions on our conditions, and on public questions and will state the reasons why the Republican party and its policies should continue in the confidence of the voters of the United States and why the doctrine of the Democracy should find no lodgment in the faith and teachings of the Republican party.

"Very truly yours,
"D. B. HENDERSON."
Speaker Henderson says that his letter quoted above expresses all he cares to say at this time. He said: "I am not in sympathy with my party's position relative to the trusts and tariff. There was no other course open to me than to withdraw, unless I chose to stifle my convictions, and I won't do that. I do not believe that the removal of tariff on products of high honors of the republic worthy of any man's ambition." The situation is in no wise alleviated by the reason assigned for Colonel Henderson's decision that he is not in accord with many of his party in Iowa in respect to the treatment of the trusts by reducing the tariff in whole or in part. The exact attitude of his party in Iowa is not yet definitely ascertained. It is an unwarranted assumption that the Republicans of Iowa have accepted as a finality a Democratic tenet as part of their political faith. The Hawkeye insists it is Colonel Henderson's duty to stand by his constituents and points to the latitude and liberty of opinion in the party which had place for moderate protectionists like Garfield and Arthur and high protectionists like Blaine and McKinley and tolerates Senator Hoar in his attitude toward the Republican policy in the Philippines.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The withdrawal of Speaker Henderson from the congressional race in the Third Iowa district created great astonishment here but the politicians began immediately to speculate upon the probable successor in the event the Republicans control the next House of Representatives, and his decision to retire is irrevocable. The names most prominently mentioned are those of Representative Cannon of Illinois, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Representative T. E. Burton of Cleveland, Chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, and Representative Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, who has been conspicuous in urging the enactment of new anti-trust legislation. Others mentioned are Representative Hepburn of Iowa, Chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, and Representative James Sherman of New York, the Chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee. THREE CHICAGO DOCTORS

Failed to Do for Miss Mabelle L. La-Monte What Was Accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She Has Written a Faithful Account of Her Case to Convince Other Suffering Women.

The beautiful young lady whose portrait we publish in this article has only one object in view in allowing us to print her story, and that is to help convince other young women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively restore their health and relieve their suffering as surely as the sun shines.

MISS MABELLE L. LAMONTE,
Leader Nielsen Singing Society, Chicago, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was in an awful state for nearly three years with a complication of female troubles which three physicians called by different names, but the pains were all the same. I dreaded the times of my monthly periods for it meant a couple of days in bed in awful agony. I finally made up my mind that the good doctors were guessing; and hearing from different friends such good reports of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I tried that. I bless the day I did, for it was the dawning of a new life for me. I used five bottles before I was cured, but when they were taken I was a well woman once more. Your Compound is certainly wonderful. Several of my friends have used it since, and nothing but the best do I ever hear from its use. Yours, MABELLE L. LAMONTE, 222 E. 31st St., Chicago, Ill."

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure Miss LaMonte—why not you? You cannot tell until you try it. If you are ill, and really want to get well, commence its use at once, and do not let any drug clerk persuade you that he has something of his own which is better, for that is absurd. Ask him to produce the evidence we do.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had such a vast and successful experience in treating female ills. She has cured thousands of others, and she will cure every suffering woman who will simply ask and follow her advice.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

BACK TO JAIL

Is This Man Sent—Bore the Brand and Was Not Allowed to Earn Honest Living.

New York, Sept. 17.—John B. Hendrickson has been sentenced to a term of 60 days in Raymond street jail by the Court of Special Sessions in Brooklyn. Hendrickson was charged with having obtained a position as a conductor from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company under false pretenses, having declared in his application that he had never been convicted of any crime, and that the name he had signed to the application was his own. As a matter of fact he had served 18 months in Sing Sing for grand larceny and signed the name of Harry Cox to his application for employment.

County Judge Hurd, who sentenced him to prison, met him on the car after he had got a "jo," upon his release, and Hendrickson revealed his identity, thanking the Judge for the light sentence he had received. The Judge mentioned the circumstances to a detective and the information reached the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, which had Hendrickson arrested.

Hendrickson pleaded for mercy in Court. "I met a man in prison," he said, "who had been a minister. He has been released and is now a good member of society. I tried to get honest employment after leaving the prison, but could not under my own name, and was compelled to use another to support my family."

Yet there was nothing for the Court to do but "send him up."

AN OLD FAVORITE

OLD IRONSIDES

By Oliver Wendell Holmes

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, one of America's greatest poets, whose son has just been appointed justice of the Supreme court of the United States, was born in Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 29, 1809, and died in Boston Oct. 7, 1894. He won distinction in medicine and literature. The following poem was written to avert the threatened breaking up of the old frigate Constitution, known as "Old Ironsides," and was successful in its purpose.

A Y, tear her tattered ensign down!
Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see
That banner in the sky.

Beneath it rang the battle-shout,
And burst the cannon's roar;
The meteor of the ocean air
Shall sweep the clouds no more.

Her deck, once red with heroes' blood,
Where the broad conquests lay,
Where the vanquished foe
When winds were hurrying o'er the foam,

And waves were white below,
No more shall feel the victor's tread,
Or know the conquered knee;
The harpies of the shore shall pluck
The eagle of the sea!

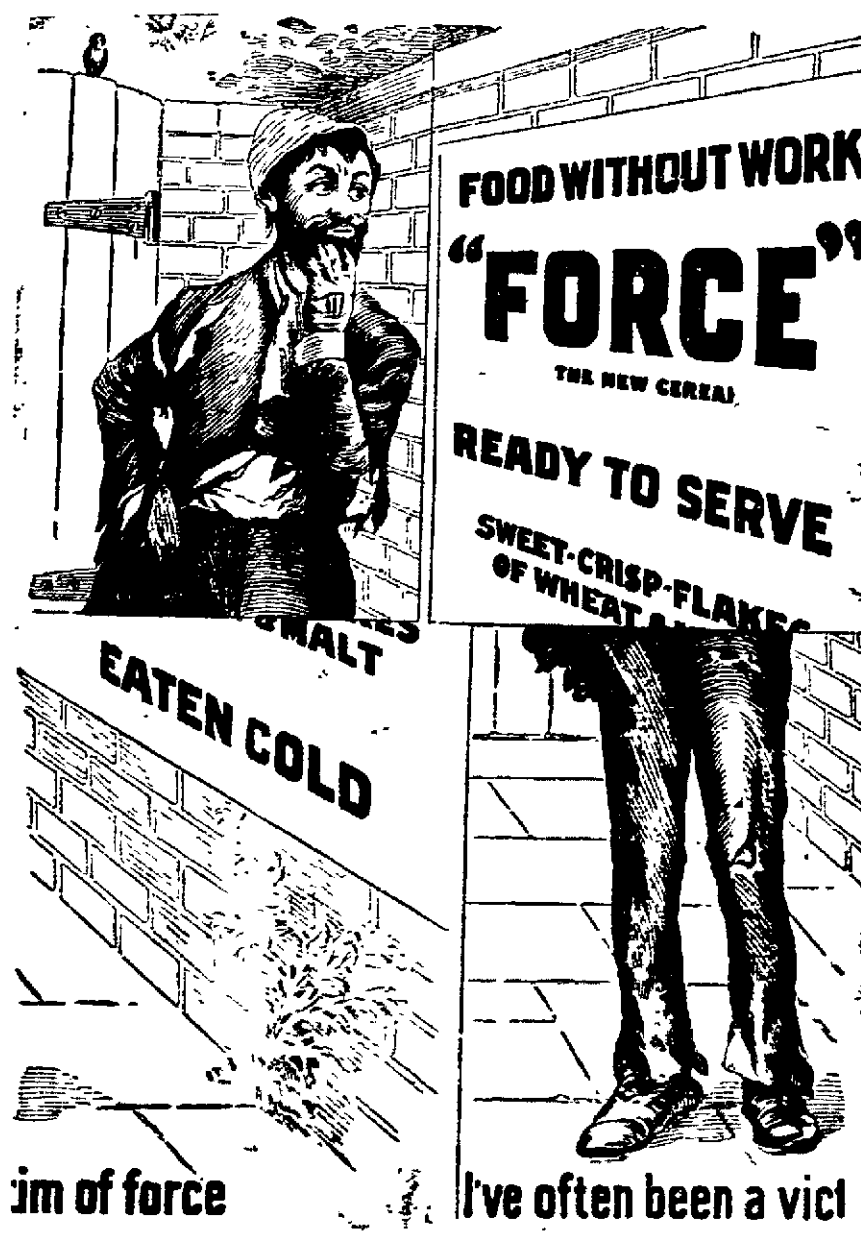

O, better that her shattered hulk
Should sink beneath the wave;
Her thunders shook the mighty deep,
And there should be her grave;
Nail to the mast her holy flag,
Set every threadbare sail,
And give her to the god of storms,
The lightning and the gale!

GROCCERS

TAKE ACTION ON TELEPHONE RENTALS.

Will Stand by Independent Company, Which is Now Installing New Central Energy System.

A meeting of Newark grocers was held Tuesday night, 20 of the retail dealers being present. The subject under discussion was the recent increase in the telephone rental made by the Central Union company from $1.50 per month to $3.

It was decided to take out the old phone, the Central Union Company's instrument, on November 1, and a petition will be immediately circulated when it is expected every grocer will sign.

The Citizen's or new 'phone, will be kept in the stores, as their rate is $2 per month, which, under the charter, can go no higher. By December 1 the Newark Independent company expects to have all 'phones on a new metallic, central energy system, which guarantees the very best satisfaction. The Independent company is now spending over $40,000 in the re-equipping its plant with the best apparatus obtainable. New pole lines have been set throughout the city and Crumb & Co., of Chicago are about to string new cables and new wires on these poles. The new central energy switchboard is being built in Indiana. Each subscriber will get a new telephone, all those in use being removed from the c.w.

The home company gives the same rate, 1 per month as the old company gives on a party line.

AMUSEMENTS.

Taking pencil and paper and applying the rule of addition it is made mathematically clear that the Quinlan & Wall Imperial Minstrels, that will appear at the Auditorium tonight are most lavish in their offering of instruction and amusement. They return to each patron twelve times the value of his or her money; in other words, at least $6 worth of useful knowledge and wholesome recreation. They actually bestow every day on the public $12 worth of benefit and in a season the munificent sum of $3,260,000.

This is the sum total in cold figures. The proof of the calculation is found in the great First Part, "A Reception to the Diplomatic Legion," in the Great Sanderson, in Muffin and Correlli, in the Brothers Gaspard, in Jimmy Wall, in The Trocadero Quartette, in the lively afterpiece, "Fun and Frolic at the Station," in the Quinlan & Wall Military Band and Symphony Orchestra and in the concerts and daily street parade.

NEXT MONDAY NIGHT.

No play of recent years has had so much of genuine interest to the public as Denman Thompson and George W. Ryer's new dramatic masterpiece, "Our New Minister," which is in its second year of success, and which comes to the Auditorium on Monday night, September 22, for the first time here. Its interest is broad in its scope, and the touches of pathos, bits of comedy, Yankee humor and Yankee dialect, make it an entertainment well worth seeing by everybody, old and young. The keynote of its success is in the fact that it pictures real people, real life, and a real state of affairs to be found in any rural New England community at the present day. The play is in three acts and tells the story of life in "Hardscrabble," where the struggle for existence is hard and where narrow minded prejudice dominates largely the life of the villagers. Naturally the minister of such a place is a man of great importance, around whom revolve the main interests of the village. There is also interwoven a story of human interest in the return of a convict from State's prison, shunned by most of his old friends and acquaintances, yet championed by a few, led by the minister's example, in an effort to lead an upright life. The original company will be seen, and a magnificent scenic production is promised.

POINTER'S RECORD STILL SAFE

New York, Sept. 17.—With perfect weather, a good track and a large and appreciative crowd, the great stallion Dan Patch, had every circumstance in his favor in his effort to defeat old Father Time and win the world's pacing record at the Empire track Tuesday, but he did not do so. Accompanied by a running mate, the famous son of Joe Patchen came out and paced a preliminary mile in 2:11. Speculation was very active at 100 on two minutes to 25 for faster time. In his first effort he went to the quarter in 30 3/4 and on to the half in 1:01, but tired badly and came home all out in 2:02 1/2. The pacing record of 1:59 1/4 held by Star Pointer looks safe for this year.

SOMETHING WILL DROP.

It is said that the National League magnates realizing their hopeless fight against the American, have a tacit agreement to let the old high priced stars go, and develop youngsters to take their place. In this they hope to get the co-operation of the American and thus force down salaries. This is said to account for the large number of minor league talent that has been tried out during the last weeks of the season. It is also noticed that most of these youngsters have lost the games in which they have officiated, which is taken to indicate that the old players realize that if the new men make good, their positions may be jeopardized. This may or may not be true, but it is a fact that the way salaries are being boosted, some of the clubs will go under next season. It has been figured that not a club in either league will have a salary list next season much less than $50,000, which will mean an average daily attendance of 3,000 to keep even, and few clubs can make this average. In these days of inflated and fictitious salaries something has to give way sooner or later.

The Finest Cleaner Made

ROLLIN WHITE LOWERS RECORD.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 17.—The auto mobile races drew 9,000 people, Tuesday and resulted as follows:

*Disqualified for being overweight. In this race Harkness was permitted to start without weighing his machine. Later the weight was found to be 2,200 pounds. He was disqualified, the race going to C. B. Shanks. Three miles, electric, all weights—Walter Baker, Cleveland, won in 5:54 3/4; W. M. Wright, Cleveland, second; C. E. Dehzer, Cleveland, third.

Ten-mile handicap, for winners and seconds in races Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4—Rollin White, handicap 2 minutes, won in 16:55; Percy Owen, handicap 1 1/2 miles, second; C. B. Shanks, scratch, third.

Mile exhibition—Baker "Torpedo." Time 2:07.

Ten-mile open—Alex. Winton, Cleveland, won in 10:50; H. S. Harkness, New York, second; L. P. Moore, Cleveland, third.

Australian pursuit race between Alex. Winton, Cleveland, and H. S. Harkness, New York—Winton caught Harkness at 4 3/8 miles. Time 4:41.

Ten-mile handicap, open—Won by Percy Owen, New York, in 10:24.

Rollin White drove his steam machine five miles in 6:43, a new record for steam machines.

Mr. White is a former resident of Newark, and his father, Mr. Erasmus White, now lives in this city. He is a brother of Mr. Archie White, now of New York City, but formerly of Newark.

Mr. Rollin White is an enthusiastic automobilist, and his many Newark friends are interested in his successful dashes against time, in the exciting automobile races.

O. S. U.'s GOOD FULLBACK MATERIAL.

Ruggles Beach, O., Sept. 17.—A tired lot of football players are at Ruggles Beach, for after Sunday's rest the coach has given them two big days' work.

Tuesday morning he gave them the customary ten-mile walk. At 2:30 he had out Brown, Landick, Van Horne and Elder doing some punting, and an hour later the rest of the squad came out, 24 men in all, and some real football was engaged in.

The punting department is improving slowly, but is still very weak. Captain Crover shows his old form, faster and a harder punger than ever. Van Horne, who played a star full last year at Franklin, will try for fullback. This makes three fullbacks of experience. Van Horne, Landick and Elder, all weighing over 175 pounds, and the fight will be a war one for the place. Out of such timber, Perry Hale ought to bring out a man that can make the first down when called upon.

Wiles, the Delaware quarter, is showing up well, and though a little light, will make a valuable man. Malons, who will try for guard, will give one of the guards, though he has had no experience whatever, a run for position.

The two teams lined up for about 20 minutes of scrimmage work. This was very fast and the coach is well pleased with the prospects.

Manager Postle was out on a still hunt for players Tuesday, and although no names could be obtained, he claims to have landed a man who will be here later in the week and will take care of the punting department in Sweney style.

FOOTBALL AT DELAWARE.

The prospects for a strong team for Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware are brighter than for a number of seasons. Twenty-five men showed up for practice Tuesday evening and were put through hard work by Coach Boyle. Wesleyan's schedule has been announced and includes 10 games, five at Delaware and five on foreign grounds. Denison plays the Methodists Oct. 11 at Delaware.

KENYON'S OUTLOOK NOT BRIGHT.

Kenyon's football outlook is not bright, as Captain Carlisle is the only regular of last year's team who is eligible to play. Several of the substitutes on last year's team are back, however, and will undoubtedly play this year. The incoming class includes a number with some football experience and some good players may be developed.

MEMBERSHIP FEE FOR JUNIORS IS REDUCED.

Teachers in Educational Classes Are Announced—Men's Meetings—Important Meeting of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees of the Young Men's Christian Association at its monthly meeting Tuesday night voted on a number of important matters.

One change that will, it is believed, be received with general approval is the reduction of the Junior Membership fee from $5.00 to $3.00 per year. It has never seemed quite just that the boys who have limited privileges and are admitted only at special hours should be charged the same fee as the seniors who enjoy the full privileges of the association. Therefore, the Board has felt that there ought to be many more boys getting the benefits of the Association than there are now.

This change, which will go into effect at once, and the various lines of work which are being planned especially for the boys, and which will be announced very soon, will it is hoped, bring many new members to the Junior Department. Parents could do no better thing for their boys than place them into the classes which the Association will conduct for their benefit this year.

The following schedule of hours for the Juniors, will go into effect October 1:

Use of reading room and games—Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon from 3:30 to 6:00.

Gymnasium classes, baths and swimming pool—Tuesday afternoon from 2:45 to 6:00 and Saturday morning from 9:45 to 12. The Thursday afternoon class from 3:45 to 5:00 will be for military drill in the "Boys' Brigade."

Boys' meeting every Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

The board also voted to re-open the bowling alleys, provided there are enough of the members who desire it. A canvass will be made of the membership and if there are fifty members who will buy in advance $1.00 worth of bowling tickets the alleys will be put in order and opened from 4 to 6 every evening with a competent attendant in charge.

The Educational Committee reported that instructors have been secured for the following evening classes:

Arithmetic—Harry Scott, Home Building Association.) Book-keeping—J. M. Maylone, (Cashier Peoples Bank.)

Stenography—Miss Mary Mast, (Teacher of Short-hand and Typewriting.)

Mechanical Drawing—Wm. Schroeder, (Chief Engineer Jewett Car Co.) Illustrating and Lettering—Gideon Lippincott (Graduate Zanenart Art College.)

German—Rev. W. A. Berger, (Pastor German Presbyterian church.) Male Chorus—Ernest T. Johnson.

Classes will begin Monday evening, Oct. 6. Registrations are now being received at the Y. M. C. A. office.

The Religious Work Committee announced that beginning Sunday, Oct. 5 the Men's meetings will again be held in Taylor Hall and that a special effort is being made to secure strong speakers this season. For October the following have been secured: Sunday, Oct. 5, Rev. S. A. Ort, Dean of Wittenberg College, Springfield, O.; Sunday, Oct. 12, Supt. J. A. Shawan of Public School, Columbus; Sunday, Oct. 19, Paul C. Martin, Springfield, O.; Sunday, Oct. 26, Evangelist F. A. Strough, of Michigan.

Complete announcements will be made later concerning these men, their subjects and the special music for the different Sundays.

Hadn't Used Any Hysteria. A certain lady of title recovered from a rather severe illness. An adept with the brush and a regular exhibitor of water colors in connection with the local art gallery, it was supposed she had overworked herself.

When the doctor was called in, an old nurse who had been in the family many years bore the medical man with her opinions as to the cause of the attack.

"It's them long hours and hard work of the painting what's done it," she remarked directly she saw him. The doctor was preoccupied and scarcely heard the remark.

"Has her ladyship exhibited any traces of hysteria?" he suddenly demanded, turning to the talkative nurse. "Oh, no, sir," was the unexpected reply. "They was water colors, all on 'em; real beauties too!"—Evening Wisconsin.

To Unlimited Affluence the Ritchies Have Risen Through Settlements of Certain Court Cases.

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Following close upon the settlement of the long standing litigation between Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ritchie and the estate of the late Senator Henry B. Payne comes the announcement of the settlement of the numerous lawsuits between the Ritchies and the estates of the late millionaire, Thomas W. Cornell and the Ritchies and Judge Stevenson Burke of Cleveland. The Ritchies receive $900,000 in securities from the Cornell estate and $300,000 in stocks and bonds from Judge Burke. The stocks secured give them control of the Central Ontario Railway, in Canada. They will at once extend this road to connect with the Canada Atlantic road for which extension the Dominion government has offered a bonus of $250,000. From being comparatively poor the Ritchies have become millionaires. Their claims with litigants were based on securities put up as collateral which had immensely increased in value.

HARSCH-TANNER WEDDING.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 17.—T. M. Harsch, the merchant tailor, who has arranged to move his store to Dayton, Ohio, and Miss Musa Tanner, were married Monday evening by Rev. F. W. Bope, of St. James Episcopal church.

The bride is the sister of Fire Chief Hal Tanner and a sister-in-law of Lorenzo D. Abell, the well known Democratic politician. The Tanner family, it is said, has opposed the match, and there are stories of some strenuous times that are the subject of gossip in social circles.

REGULARS

WILL RETURN TO COLUMBUS ON SATURDAY.

Second Battalion, Twentieth Regiment, U. S. I., Much Pleased with the Stay at Newark.

The Second Battalion of the Twentieth regiment, U. S. I., which has been in camp at the Encampment ground, west of the city, since September 8, will break camp on Saturday and leave for Columbus, where they have been stationed since April 9, the date of their arrival from the Philippines. The battalion is through with its work here, except the target practice, which will go back to 800 and 1000 yards. This will be followed by the volley finish, winding up with skirmish on Friday, and the breaking up of camp Saturday.

The men are under the command of acting commanding officer Captain Krey, and there are nine officers and 166 enlisted men in the command. The men speak very highly of the fine treatment they have received at the hands of the citizens of Newark and for the many courtesies extended. The battalion after its return to Columbus will leave in a few days to join the other battalions of the regiment at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

THOMAS CASE

APPLICATION FOR ALIMONY HAS BEEN MADE.

Ada Blandy Thomas Wants Support for Herself and Child—Divorce Suit Still Pending.

A Scripps-McRae press telegram from Columbus to the Advocate this noon brought the following news of the Ada Blandy Thomas case. Mrs. Thomas formerly lived on South Fourth street, this city, where she spent her girlhood:

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 17.—Application will be made by Mrs. Thomas of this city, in the courts of Cook county, Ill., for temporary alimony and maintenance for her child, and her husband Harold Thomas, will be cited to answer. Since the dramatic ending of the first trial which was instituted by young Thomas, the son of General Sam Thomas, neither side has attempted to revive the litigation. H. E. Bradley, local counsel for Mrs. Thomas, has been advised, however, by his associate, Colonel Barry of Chicago, that young Thomas will be called upon to support his wife and child and that an application for alimony would at once be made. The suit for divorce is still pending at Chicago.

At the recent trial the judge took the case from the jury on the ground that that body was influenced in favor of Mrs. Thomas.

MILEAGE

BOOKS GOOD ON THE N. AND G. ELECTRIC ROAD.

After This Week 33 Miles Will be Considered the Distance to Columbus via Buckeye.

Announcement is just made that the new 300 and 1000 mile books on the Buckeye Lake road will not only be good for use on electric roads centering in Columbus, but may also be used on the Newark & Granville road, seven miles being torn out on the trip between Newark and Granville. After this week only 33 miles will be torn out of the book on a trip between Newark and Columbus though the length of the line is 37 miles. The reason that 33 miles will be the number is that that is the distance between Columbus and Newark on the steam railroads. The mileage books are selling at 1 1-4 cents a mile or $25 for a 300 mile book which is good for any number in any one family and is good until used.

HOUNDS

Led to Home of Roths—Father of Injured Children Says He Will Kill Him.

Hamilton, O., Sept. 17.—An attempt at murder, or perhaps assault, was made last night on Hattie, aged 5, and Stella, aged 6, daughters of Charles H. Motzer. A stranger met them on the street and upon the promise of buying them candy enticed them into an alley. While passing through the alley Stella tried to get away from him, when he grasped both children by the throats and dragged them to a vacant lot overgrown with high weeds. He then struck Hattie on the head with a blunt instrument and threw her into the weeds, while he inflicted a fearful wound on Stella's head with a knife. As he did this, Stella jerked away from him and ran screaming to her uncle, Gottlieb Motzer, who gave the alarm.

Bloodhounds on the trail of the man who attempted to murder or assault the children went to the home of Joe Roths this morning, where he was found in bed with his boots on. The police arrested him. Hattie Motzer may die. There is intense excitement and the father of the children vows he will kill Roths.

He had been reading Marie Corelli's "Mighty Alone," and his death was an imitation of the principal scene in the book.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Game of Wanderers.

When we were children and went to the "real country," where there were woods and long stretches of sand and the bay splashing in at our very front door, we used to invent many games that we could never play anywhere else.

One of these we called wanderers. We always had as many as eight in the game, and we usually counted out to see who would be the leaders. We had to count out twice, for we needed two leaders. Then each leader chose his men in turn, just as we used to choose sides for a spelling match. When we were all chosen, the leaders would toss up to see who should be the first to go forth in the woods. You see, we had everything very fair, so as not to waste any time in disputing.

If Ralph's side won the toss, then Harry's party all turned their backs, while Ralph's party went wandering off into the woods. We in Harry's party kept our backs turned and our eyes shut till we had counted 200 straight—one, two, three, four, not five, ten, fifteen, twenty or any of the other short cuts. We all counted together out loud, and this gave the other party time to steal away silently in any direction it pleased, and when we had finished counting they were nowhere in sight and we had no idea of where to look for them, but we started out all together through the woods hunting them. We went as silently as we could so as to come upon them unawares, and they went as silently as they could so we would not get on their trail. If one of our party saw even one of their party, we gave a big Indian warwhoop, and they knew they were discovered. Then they turned their backs just where they were and counted, and we went stealing off through the woods. Sometimes we spent whole mornings evading each other in the woods. The silence and the mystery of following up the wood paths, perhaps to victory, perhaps to defeat, were very fascinating to us all, and if I were a little boy again I should like nothing better than to steal through the woods with the shy wood birds and rabbits all about me, playing a game of wanderers.—New York Tribune

"Your mother calling me a flirt is just at hand," she wrote. "I send you back your letters, sir, and just think with this note. I'm sorry that I can't return Pomphrey and flowers as well. Consider we are strangers now. Yours truly, Bessie Bell."

"Perhaps I wronged the little maid; she may be true as steel." He sighed and took the package up and broke the ribbon on seal. But just imagine his remarks. Oh, reader, if you can for all these burning bills dox were from the other man!" —Smart Set.

Saving Alaska's ... ESKIMOS

[Special Correspondence.]

Dutch Harbor, Aleutian Islands, Sept. 2.—It is cheerful news that the Alaskan reindeer are increasing rapidly and that the last importation from Siberia, made a few months ago, is doing well.

To one who knows the far northwest that report means much more than it does to the American citizen who lives comfortably in a land of dairies, railways and canned foods. In a country like northern Alaska the reindeer takes the place of horse, sheep and cow. It means in truth the actual continued existence of the fine Eskimo native race inhabiting the interior and northern portion of Alaska. Before the white trappers, hunters, traders and miners invaded their domain these people lived on fish, caribou, moose and bear. They clad themselves in the skins of the animals they killed and lived their lives and went to Eskimo heaven in their own way.

Then the white man, the destroyer, came. He killed their game, caught their fish and brought them whiskey. From this it resulted that the natives were rapidly dying off. One man saw it all, and his heart grieved for them, for they are a fine people, superior to the red Indians farther south. The Eskimo Alaskan native is brown skinned, like a Japanese. The one person who grieved that they were vanishing was a white man and a missionary, Rev. Sheldon Jackson. A minister of the Presbyterian church for more than thirty years, he had been preaching and practicing Christianity among the aborigines of America from Canada to Mexico, from the terminus of civilization as its line stretched westward anywhere from old California on the south to Point Barrow, our most northwesterly settlement, on the corner of Alaska and the Arctic ocean.

He loved the native people of Alaska, for he saw how capable they were. It seemed to him he was helpless to save them. He thought and thought the case over, asking himself what could be done. Finally the United States government recognized his disinterested work for the uplifting of the natives and made him commissioner of education for all Alaska. That gave him somewhat more of power and authority.

Still trying to find a way to keep the bodies of his people from starving while he saved their souls, at length a happy thought struck him. In his far northwestern journeys he had learned how the Siberians of northeastern Russia depend for their comfortable existence on the reindeer, that gives them food, clothing and transportation. It can travel ten miles an hour all day and draw a 200 pound load. All Alaska is covered eighteen inches deep with the moss on which the reindeer subsists and grows fat. What the reindeer would do for the Siberian natives it would also do for their kindred race in Alaska, if it could be domesticated.

Dr. Jackson urged the matter on the government. The race of Alaskan natives was dying of starvation. Something must be done to save them. At length the national authorities appropriated money to bring several hundred of the deer across from Asia to our side. They were brought and turned loose with the expectation that they would look out for themselves and multiply. In a short time the most beautiful reindeer skin coats with exquisitely wrought walrus tooth buttons began to be offered for sale at St. Michael's and elsewhere. I have seen these many a time. Five of the deer were loosed here on the island at Dutch Harbor. Instead of multiplying as they should have done and would have done if they had been let alone, before long only two were left. Hunters had killed the others. It was plain the turning loose plan would not do.

Then Dr. Jackson asked that an importation of Lapp herders might accompany another batch of deer. They were brought and reindeer stations established. Meantime ridicule and opposition from hunters, trappers and many traders met him at every step. Now at last he can rejoice in the noble fruition of ten years' unceasing labor in behalf of domesticating reindeer in Alaska.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Retts the Unconquered.

Dr. F. W. Reitz, former state secretary of the Transvaal, who is soon to visit this country, is as bitterly opposed to English rule in South Africa as he was during the war. Some months ago he said, "When I return to South Africa, it will be with a gun on my shoulder." The other day in Paris he said: "I will never take the oath of allegiance to Great Britain. I would not swear allegiance to the British flag to save my wife and children from starvation." Speaking of his proposed visit to the United States, he said, "I am going to America to tell the American people of the inhuman treatment which our women and children received at the hands of the English."

Told of Justice Gray.

The retirement of Justice Gray of the United States supreme court has furnished a text for many reminiscences of his earlier days. While he was a member of the supreme court of Massachusetts he had an amusing experience with a certain Boston lawyer, an exceedingly pious man with a taste for evangelization, who had his letterheads printed with a verse from Scripture in large type following the name and address. On one occasion, having to make an ex parte preliminary argument before Judge Gray in chambers in which it would be necessary to disclose certain parts of his client's case which he desired not to make generally public until the trial, he wrote the judge a note, asking that he be allowed an opportunity to speak to him in private.

He was somewhat chagrined when his note came back to him with a scrawl across the bottom, "Request denied, with a suggestion from the court that counsel base future petitions on a more appropriate citation." For a moment he could not make out the meaning of this, as he was not aware that he had quoted any law; but, glancing up the page, he discovered that he had written his note on a letterhead bearing this text: "Ye are bought with a price."

Quay and the Postmistress.

Mrs. Lizzie Baldwin of Canton, Miss., owes her position as postmistress of that town to Senator Quay of Pennsylvania, who secured her appointment from President McKinley over four years ago and induced President Roosevelt to reappoint her a short time since. It is not generally known, however, that Senator Quay's interest in this particular Mississippi postoffice dates back a great many years.

It seems that the senator upon completing his school life bought a magic lantern and started south, giving exhibitions in the hope that he would build the foundation of a large fortune. Arriving at Canton, Miss., he was taken ill, and his "show" was stranded. The family of Mrs. Baldwin, with true southern hospitality, looked after young Quay, and Senator Quay never forgot this act of kindness. The failure of his magic lantern exhibition resulted in the first appointment of Mrs. Baldwin as postmistress and is likely to continue her in the position as long as the Pennsylvania senator has any influence at the White House.

Mrs. Nation attempted to speak at the fair in Stroudsburg, but she was so annoyed by young men who threw peanuts at her that she gave up in disgust.

CHAMP CLARK STORIES

Interesting Discussion on Heredity in Politics.

Intellectual Capacity Not Equal in Men—Sons Often Greater Than Their Fathers—Instances of the Descent of Ability—The Two Adamses, Bayards and Saulsbury of Delaware—Fights Among Brothers For Political Preference.

[Copyright, 1902, by Champ Clark.]

One day in the cloakroom the vexed question of the transmission of certain qualities from parent to offspring, both in the human race and among the lower animals, was the theme of conversation. It ranged all the way from the fad of the eccentric Frenchman, who had left a large fortune in trust for the purpose of propagating a race of giants, to the breeding of bobtail pups. Ruminating upon what I heard, I collated certain facts which may be of interest.

What Jefferson Meant.

"Is there any such thing as heredity in American politics?" is a question which affords food for reflection to sociologists, philosophers and statesmen. Evidently Thomas Jefferson did not intend there should be, for the entire theory of our institutions is bottomed on this famous dictum, "All men are created equal." He never meant, as some hypercritical persons who were either stupid or decidedly uncandid have tried to make it appear, that all men have the same endowments of mind, soul and body.

Such an assumption would have been preposterous, and most assuredly Jefferson did not deal in the preposterous. With his exquisite intellect he could not have thought that the chances of all men for political preference are equal. He understood too well the philosophy of environment and how great a part luck or accident plays in the affairs of men.

What he meant and all he meant was that all men are endowed by nature with equal political rights, and I am inclined to think he used "men" as a generic term, like the Latin "homo," including the women also. His immortal saying contains the entire motive power of that leveling process which has been abroad in the world for more than a century.

The Adams Family.

When the constitution was adopted, so thoroughly did the idea of hereditary political honors appear to be exploded in this country that the prophet would have been hoisted at who predicted that in the first century of constitutional government a father and a son of one family and a grandfather and grandson of another would all be presidents of the republic, while the sons of two other presidents would be mentioned as a possible presidential team.

It is true that John Quincy Adams was an abler man than old John and that General Benjamin Harrison easily outclassed General William Henry Harrison. But no man who regards truth and who takes cognizance of the doctrine of cause and effect will for one moment believe that the younger Adams and the younger Harrison would ever have been president had not their illustrious ancestors held that exalted station. "Grandfather's hat" was a great thing for paragraphers and cartoonists and furnished the world with lots of fun, but it stirred the heart of many an old Whig who could remember the log cabin campaign and the rhyming battle of—

Tippecanoe too.

Perhaps—who knows?—it was the straw that turned the scale against the New Yorker and in favor of the Hoosier.

John Adams and Abigail, his wife, transmitted their talents, tastes and ambitions farther than any other pair in American history. They must have been an ideally mated couple. Two Adamses, old John and John Quincy, were presidents. These two and Charles Francis, son of John Quincy, were ministers to the court of St. James.

Charles Francis was the Free Soil candidate for president, with Martin Van Buren, in 1848, and came near capturing the presidency which Horace Greeley received in 1872. A great many wise men believe to this day that had he been nominated instead of "the Sage of Chappaqua" he would have been elected.

His son, John Quincy, has been the Democratic nominee for governor of Massachusetts.

Four Bayards in the Senate.

Besides those already mentioned, there are many other instances in our annals where the tendency toward political life and the ability to succeed therein have descended from father to son. In all fairness it should be stated that in many cases the sons are of greater ability than their fathers.

In antebellum days it was common enough for sons to ultimately succeed their fathers as representatives of southern constituencies.

The two Dodges, the father from Wisconsin and the son from Iowa, sat side by side in the senate of the United States before the war.

For years—indeed, as the Romans would have said, ab urbe condita—the senatorial office in Delaware was hereditary in the Bayard and Saulsbury families.

Four Bayards have sat in the senate—James A., his two sons, Richard B., and James A. Jr., and James A. Jr.'s son, Thomas F. The last named was sworn in just as his father's term expired. He was ambassador to the court of St. James after having been secretary of state.

His grandfather, James A., who was the founder of the dynasty and who succeeded his own father-in-law in the senate, served as one of the commissioners to Ghent and declined the missions to both France and Russia.

The strange spectacle was once presented in the land of the Blue Hen's Chickens of three Saulsbury brothers being candidates for the United States senate against each other. One of them did actually succeed the other. If the Republicans had not captured the state, the third Saulsbury brother would ultimately have taken his turn.

Ell Saulsbury always boasted that he was the only man that ever served more than six years on one election to the senate. This is how he did it: When the hands of the clock marked the hour of 12 noon, at which time his term expired, he was up making a speech, and they couldn't choke him off till he had spoken 20 minutes beyond his senatorial life.

Senator Nat Claiborne once ran against and defeated his father for the Virginia legislature.

Jeremiah S. Black in his younger days was nominated against his father for congress, but declined, very much to his honor.

Simon Cameron's Wit.

Missouri has the distinction of having among her governors a father and son, the Marmadukes, and she fondly cherishes the memories of both. Indeed by affinity and consanguinity that family has furnished three governors, for Hon. Claiburn F. Jackson married a sister of three maternal aunts of General John S. Marmaduke. It is commonly reported that when he asked old Dr. Sappington for his third daughter, the knight of the pill bugs replied, "All right, Claib, take her, but for heaven's sake don't come back for the old woman."

In comparatively recent years Simon Cameron, while he was sure of the Pennsylvania machine, resigned a seat in the senate in the middle of his term in order to have his son elected as his successor. Simon had also been secretary of war and minister to Russia. But Don was by no means obscure when he succeeded to the curule chair of his wily sire, for he had been secretary of war under Grant, which place, however, he most likely obtained out of a desire on the president's part to please "the Winnebago Chieftain," as the head of the Clan Cameron was dubbed.

Two sayings of the elder Cameron are not inappos. Once he remarked, "I had one great advantage over Don—I was born poor." On another occasion, when wrangling with Don about his high handed methods of procedure, he said, "Don, you are much richer than I, but I'll have a blamed sight more mourners at my funeral than you will."

At one time two of the finest orators in the senate were uncle and nephew—Voorhees of Indiana and Dubois of Idaho. At another time during his long senatorial career one of Voorhees' sons sat in the house for two terms as a delegate from Washington territory.

Colonel William C. P. Breckinridge was not the son of a congressman, but his father, old Dr. Robert J., was not only a theologian of renown, but managed always to find time to take a big hand in politics, being, among other things, chairman of the Republican national convention of 1864, which nominated Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson.

It is safe to say that first and last Breckinridge has had 100 cousins of near degree in the house, senate, cabinet, gubernatorial chairs, diplomatic positions and the vice presidency.

Judge Culberson of Texas was the only congressman who could boast that he was the father of the governor of a great state, but Josiah Patterson was nearly as proud of the fact that his son was attorney general of Tennessee, while Mr. Speaker Crisp had for secretary his son Charles, who, excepting Mr. Reed, knew more parliamentary law than any representative on the floor. Charlie Crisp filled out his father's unexpired term.

It is generally known that an uncle, Mr. Justice Field of California, and his nephew, Mr. Justice Brewer of Kansas, were members of the supreme court of the United States at the same time.

Another man on that bench, John M. Harlan, is the son of one of the most distinguished lawyers Kentucky has ever produced.

General George B. McClellan's son, George B. Jr., "Young Mac," as his friends lovingly call him, represents a Tammany district in the present congress.

In one congress with McClellan sat young Mr. Belknap of Chicago, son of one of General Grant's war secretaries.

Governor and General John S. Phelps of Missouri was a scion of the great New England Phelps family, which has produced so many lawyers and statesmen of distinction.

All these facts go to prove the doctrine of political heredity in this country, though it must be admitted that as a rule our statesmen have no sons of sufficient caliber to succeed to their honors.

This may, however, be explained to a large extent by the sad plight of Fletcher Webster, son of the "godlike Daniel," who fretted under the fact that he was always compared to his own disadvantage with his father, and that no difference what he did or attempted in politics his enemies competitors declared that it was because of his sire's towering reputation.

When at the beginning of the civil war he was appointed by Governor Andrew to the command of a regiment, he joyfully exclaimed, "Thank God, Daniel Webster was never a colonel of infantry!"

Harper's Ferry. The Gate to the Shenandoah Valley.—Where the three States of Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland come together; where the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers unite, where the towering steep of the Blue Ridge end abruptly, towering upon the heights of Maryland and Bolivar Heights in West Virginia, lies the quaint historic town of Harper's Ferry. John Brown captured it in blood in 1859, when he captured the town and the U. S. Arsenal and made his final and fatal stand in the engine house (known afterwards as John Brown's Fort), alongside the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. A plain shaft, simply inscribed, now marks the location.

Again in 1861, grim visaged war seized the village and held it tight in its grasp for nearly four years. The deeds that were done, and the tales that are told concerning Harper's Ferry fill volumes.

The heights at Harper's Ferry guarded the Shenandoah Valley. It was a most important stronghold to be desired when some great campaign was planned by either army.

From Harper's Ferry the Shenandoah Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad extends southward to Charleston, Winchester, Harrisonburg and Lexington. Battlefields surround the village in all directions.
